

DIABETES & CVD

A GLOBAL ANALYSIS

THE SURVEY

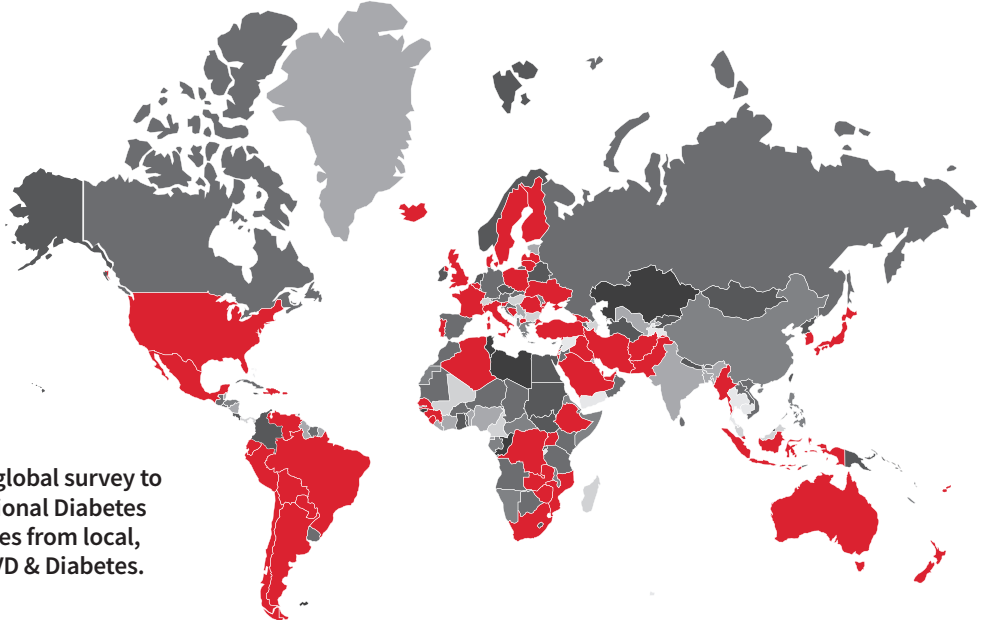

161

PARTICIPANTS

62

COUNTRIES

These numbers are the result of a global survey to World Heart Federation & International Diabetes Federation members with responses from local, regional and national experts in CVD & Diabetes.

THE REALITY

425 million people worldwide have diabetes

People with diabetes are 2 to 3 times more likely to have CVD

50% are unaware of their disease

84% of people aged 65 or older with diabetes die from heart disease and stroke

61%

do not have community or hospital programmes on the risk of CVD

57%

do not have standardised screening

57%

do not have relevant clinical guidelines or protocols for detection

29%

71%

have a waiting time of over one month to see a specialist in the public health system

25%

do not have follow up treatment programmes

reported that patients do not have access to existing follow up treatment programmes

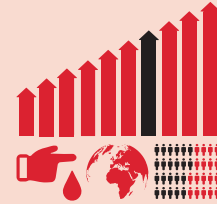

44%

THE CASE OF MEXICO

Mexico is the country with the

4th HIGHEST number of people with diabetes per population

21.8M

people have diabetes

4.5M

are estimated to have undiagnosed diabetes

43 responses

12 responses from Mexico City

The results highlight stark differences between Mexico City and those outside Mexico City

In Mexico City

Outside Mexico City

42%

have standardised screening for CVD in diabetes patients

75%

have standardised screening programmes for CVD in diabetes patients

23%

have standardised screening programmes for CVD in diabetes patients

49%

have community or hospital programmes on the risk of CVD

67%

have community or hospital based programmes on the risk of CVD

42%

have community or hospital programmes on the risk of CVD are from outside Mexico city

